WASHINGTON SECRETARY OF STATE

Employee Mobile Work Assessment

Employee Name: Click here to enter text.	Date: Click here to enter text.
Job Class Title: Click here to enter text.	Division / Program: Click here to enter text.

This assessment is designed to help you determine whether mobile work is right for you in your current position. Mobile working can benefit both you and OSOS. But it increases your responsibilities, and it requires a commitment on your part to perform all aspects of your job while maintaining or increasing your performance. Your assessment responses may increase your awareness about what mobile working may mean for you. Your objectivity is essential; you may consider soliciting feedback from others.

When you complete the assessment, discuss the results with your supervisor.

Is mobile working right for you?

1. Independence: Successful mobile workers develop regular routines, and they are able to independently set and meet deadlines. Are you self-motivated and self-disciplined? Can you effectively work independently, solving problems and completing tasks on your own? Can you complete projects on time with minimal supervision and feedback? Are you productive when no one is checking on you or closely watching you work?
   ☐ Usually ☐ Sometimes ☐ Not Really

2. Self-Management and Discipline: Do you have strong organizational and time-management skills? Are you comfortable setting priorities and deadlines? Are you results-oriented? Will you remain focused on your job while mobile working by avoiding common distractions like television, social media, housework, and household members?
   ☐ Usually ☐ Sometimes ☐ Not Really

3. Working Alone: Are you comfortable working alone? Will you miss social interaction in an office environment on the days that you telework? Will the lack of social interaction impact your job satisfaction or fulfillment?
   ☐ Yes ☐ No

4. Relationships: Mobile working can strain or weaken relationships with co-workers. Do you have effective working relationships with your co-workers? Have you evaluated how the days you telework will impact your co-workers and your shared workload? Have you determined how to support co-workers while you are working at home?
   ☐ Yes ☐ No

5. Flexibility: Have you demonstrated an ability to be flexible about work routines? Are you willing to change your plans and report to the office on a regularly scheduled day that you mobile work, should your supervisor, co-workers, or customers need you be present in the building?
   ☐ Yes ☐ No

6. Communication: Are you an effective communicator and a team player? Do you communicate well with your supervisor and your co-workers? Have you assessed how you will maintain adequate in-office communication? Have you developed ways to communicate regularly with your supervisor and your co-workers while you mobile work?
   ☐ Yes ☐ No

7. Performance: Current job performance is a strong indicator of your potential success as mobile worker. Consider any problems or developmental needs that were identified in your last performance evaluation. Can these be addressed while you are in a mobile environment?

   Are you in a review period (probation, trial service, or in-training)? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   Are you successful in your current position? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   Do you know your job well? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   Do you have a track record of good performance? ☐ Yes ☐ No

   Within the last 12 months, have you had corrective action for performance issues? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   Within the last 12 months, have you had corrective action for tardiness or absenteeism? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   Within the last 12 months, have you had corrective action for misuse of state resources? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Do you have the right job for telework?	Yes	No
My job responsibilities can be arranged so that there is no difference in the level of service provided to the customer.	☐	☐
I have identified functions of my position that I can carry out just as effectively in a mobile work environment.	☐	☐
I have few face-to-face communication requirements. I have the ability to arrange days when communication can be handled by telephone or by email.	☐	☐
I have job duties that do not require regular face-to-face interactions or workload coordination with my supervisor or other employees.	☐	☐
I am able to control and schedule workflow.	☐	☐
I can access what I need to successfully perform my job in a mobile work environment.	☐	☐
I can access confidential or classified information for assigned tasks remotely, without physically taking that information out of the office.	☐	☐
My duties do not require immediate access to equipment, documents or other information that are only accessible from the workplace.	☐	☐
I do not use special equipment that is only available in the workplace.	☐	☐
My tasks can be executed away from the office. Examples include: word-processing, proofing/editing, reading, evaluations, reports, drafting, research, and data entry.	☐	☐
My absence from the office would not be detrimental to the productivity of my work group or information-sharing.	☐	☐
Do you have the appropriate environment for telework?	Yes	No
I have a designated work area that is safe, secure, and comfortable; in my environment, it is easy to concentrate on work.	☐	☐
The workspace is free from excessive noise and distraction; my workspace has adequate lighting.	☐	☐
My workspace offers the level of security that is required by the office.	☐	☐
I have access to high-speed internet (for tasks that require access to online information).	☐	☐
I have the necessary office equipment and software that meets office standards. This includes work surfaces and chairs that are ergonomically sound.	☐	☐
I have first aid supplies and a fire extinguisher located nearby.	☐	☐
The electrical system is adequate for office equipment. I have appropriate surge protection.	☐	☐
I have access to a mobile phone or landline, in case of emergency; I have provided those numbers to the office for official use only. (Or, I have an employer-issued cellphone)	☐	☐